Council Applies for State Bond Money towards Community Center

by Diane Oberg

The Greenbelt City Council, at its March 15 regular meeting, discussed two items related to the planned community center, heard a report on planned expansion to nearby Doctors' Hospital, approved several bids and made appointments to city advisory boards and committees.

Community Center

Mayor Gil Weidenfeld reported on his testimony before the state legislature in support of the proposal, sponsored by the city's legislative delegation, that $500,000 in state bonds be sold to finance some of the renovations needed to convert Center School to a community center.

The chances of approval are unknown, since many proposals are vying for inclusion in the state package. If Greenbelt's project is approved, the city would receive the revenue from the bond sale. The state government would be responsible for the repayment of the bonds.

Council also approved the hiring of Greenman-Pederson, Inc. (GPI) to complete design and engineering work for the community center parking lots. GPI performed similar work for the renovation of the Roosevelt Center lots adjacent to the school property.

Doctors' Hospital

Thomas Crowley, Executive Vice President of Doctors' Community Hospital, described the expansion planned for the hospital. Hospital officials are currently trying to finance the $10 million program.

More and more procedures are done on an outpatient basis, explained Crowley, which was not true when the hospital was built in 1975. As a result, staff members are using hallways and very small rooms for these patients, causing a loss of privacy.

Under the expansion plan, a medical office building will be incorporated into the main building. Roughly 36,000 square feet of new space will be constructed in two areas — one connecting the existing hospital with the medical office building and one alongside the hospital. Another 20,000 square feet of existing space will be renovated.

Boards and Committee

The following appointments were made: James Drake, Advisory Planning Board; Robert Trumbule, Community Relations Board; Mary Geiger, Park and Recreation Advisory Board; Lida Churchville, Board of Elections; Beverly Lynch and Dorothy Rosenbaum, Crime Prevention Committee; Barbara Stevens, Arts Advisory Committee; Mary Beth Smith, Senior Citizens Advisory Committee; Maryalice Locke, Susan Zuk, Judith Kerns, and Andrew Levin, Recycling Advisory Committee; Kevin Faherty, Sarah Lewis, Amy Putens and Jeff Ruffin, Youth Advisory Board; and Dennis Lewis, adult volunteer to Youth Advisory Board.

Legislation

Council introduced for first reading an ordinance permitting city employees to use sick leave to spend time with a newly adopted child.

Purchases

A new floor will be installed in the Springhill Lake Recreation Center gymnasium at a cost of $38,207. Although this was the highest of three bids received, Deputy City Manager Michael McLaughlin, in his written agenda comments, recommended against accepting the lower bids, one because of reported quality problems on other jobs, the other because of the possibility of problems in obtaining warranty repairs from a distant company.

The lowest bid was accepted, however, for installation of a new metal roof to be placed over the existing Public Works facility roof. Councilmembers were somewhat uncomfortable about the roughly $25,500 difference between the accepted bid of $46,200 and the next lowest quote.

Hirsch told council that all three contractors had bid on the same package. He attributed the difference between them to the fact that the chosen firm is one of the largest roof replacement firms, which may have a better idea of how to perform the work. Work should begin in a "couple of weeks," he said.

Council also approved a proposal by the Public Works staff to purchase eight pieces of equipment. This equipment will be included in the budget proposal Hobbs will present at the next council meeting.

Hobbs acknowledged that requesting approval in advance of the budget review was an unusual step. However, if a purchase commitment is not made by March 20, announced price increases will raise the total cost by $30,515 on the $173,400 purchase. The purchase will be funded from the city's replacement fund.

String Ensemble Features Local Women Artists

by Sandy Smith

The Bellini Ensemble will perform on Saturday, April 3, at 7:30 p.m. at Mishkan Torah Synagogue, sponsored by the Greenbelt Arts Center as the last event in its 1992-93 Music Series. Featuring artists from Greenbelt or nearby communities, the Ensemble players are Kathy Birch on cello, Rachel Turkiewicz on viola, Laura Knutson as violinist, and flutist Kathleen Trahan.

The Bellini Ensemble, formed in 1981 by Ivan Smith of the London Symphony, plays in recitals of chamber music throughout the Metropolitan area in locations such as the National Gallery of Art, the Phillips Collection, the National Museum of Women in the Arts and the Barns at Wolf Trap. The group were featured performers at the St. Barnabas Church candlelight concerts. Their performances include a variety of compositions, primarily from the baroque and classical periods.

Kathy Birch is a former Greenbelt resident who now lives in Bowie. She is the Ensemble's director and a free-lance performer and teacher. A graduate of Ohio State University, she performed with the Columbus Symphony Orchestra for three years before coming to this area.

Rachel Turkiewicz, a long-time Greenbelt resident, teaches violin and viola and has many Greenbelt students. She is a graduate of Eastman School of Music and a free-lance performer who frequently performs in concerts and recitals throughout this area. She has played with the Prince William Symphony and the National Gallery of Art Orchestra.

Her musical family includes her mother, who teaches piano, her sister, who plays and teaches the violin, and her father, the late Jan Turkiewicz, who taught violin. The family performed together frequently.

Violinist Laura Knutson is also a graduate of Eastman. A former Greenbelter, she now lives in Berwyn Heights and is a member of the Army Strings. Kathleen Trahan is a Beltsville resident who plays the flute frequently with the Bellini Ensemble and other local groups.

The group is unique in that it features women performers as the regular and periodic members who join for its various performances at weddings and other special events.

Tickets are available in advance or at the door. Call the Arts Line at 441-8770 for reservations and information.

"Black (Asphalt) Is Beautiful" After Blizzard Hits City

by Virginia Beauchamp

"Black is beautiful," said Public Works Director Carl Hirsch, referring to the color of asphalt, buried under what seemed like thousands of tons of white stuff—snow, partially thawed, and then refrozen—that made the work of his men sometimes a nightmare.

Twenty-seven Public Works personnel worked almost 48 hours, with only two- or three-hour breaks to catch a catnap, from 4 a.m. on Saturday, March 13 through midnight Sunday. "They came through like champions," Hirsch said.

In fact, the city was so pleased with the work of these employees that City Manager Daniel Hobbs presented Hirsch with a city manager's award at the Monday night city council meeting. This turned out to be an "I worked the blizzard of '93" T-shirt, in recognition of their dedication. All twenty-seven department employees who worked on snow removal will receive this award. Council members also personally praised the job done by these crews.

Some of them were the mechanics, who performed sometimes as skilled drivers, but often carrying out necessary repairs. Plow frames could break on the smaller vehicles from the weight of the heavy snow. If the edging along the bottom of many of the plows sometimes cracked, mechanics took off the blades, welded new edging on the spot, and sent the vehicles back out. At a future time, these blades will be replaced with new ones, Hirsch said. A broken chain from a salt spreader was also repaired. Hirsch particularly commended James Keifline, head mechanic, for his dedicated work.

Along Crescent Road from Lastner Lane east toward Northway, nine trees were felled by high winds or the weight of ice, smashing flat the chain link fencing that marks off the property of private homes. Considered dangerous because they leaned precipitously, these trees were cut down during the storm by members of the Public Works crew, working under the direction of horticulturist Bill Phelan.

Salting of Roads

Each night members of the crew have also been on call to operate the salt spreaders. Between 5 p.m. and midnight on Monday, after the Greenbelt Police reported icing conditions on Hanover Parkway and Mandan Road, Richard Mills of the Parks crew operated a spreader. Although Greenbelt Road, as a state highway, is not the responsibility of the city, the truck spread salt there on dangerous spots while traveling to the city-maintained roadways.

Just prior to the storm, the Public Works Department replenished the salt stock, which had been depleted over the winter. Solar salt created by an evaporating process, although a few cents more expensive per ton, is preferred, Hirsch said, as less damaging environmentally. The material is finer and lacks impurities, like rock salt, which is mined from underground. Nevertheless, as this new supply ran out, the city acquired other stock from the county, with which it has a mutual sharing agreement.

Vandalism to Trucks

A gang of teenage boys created considerable damage to one of the snow removal trucks when they threw a heavy block of ice at the truck's windshield, splintering it into slivers of glass on the passenger side. Although the block did not break through, it made it impossible for the spotter, who rides alongside the driver, to look out ahead. His role is necessary, so that the blade does not cut too far to the right. Had the windshield shattered on

Thanks

Thank you to everyone who sent me postcards, pictures and maps of your area. I enjoyed all of the things I received. I think your state flag is hard to draw. I really liked getting extra information about Massachusetts, Michigan and Virginia.

Without Merit

The front page article of the News Review, dated February 25, "GEAC Discusses WSSC Fees, Roaming Students" is inaccurate, full of innuendos and conclusions without merit or fact.

Mr. Putens reported that citizens are concerned about the increase in crime, especially auto theft in the Greenbelt area, and in the next breath insinuated that large numbers of students at Eleanor Roosevelt High School leave school grounds without supervision and could be responsible for the increase in crime. Derek Thompson expressed concern over the lack of supervision and comings and goings of students at Eleanor Roosevelt and seemed to support Mr. Putens' position.

Unfortunately neither of these gentlemen has checked their facts nor have they contacted me.

Eleanor Roosevelt High School offers a rich and diverse curriculum. We have over 210 students who leave the school grounds between 11:20 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. to report to work, serve as volunteers in local nursing homes, child care centers, and internships.

Senior Science and Technology students leave campus to participate in a research practicum and leave at all times of the day to work with their mentors at the University of Maryland, NASA, Harry Diamond Laboratory, Department of Agriculture and other research facilities.

Over 300 students come to school early and take a zero period, which allows them to leave school at 3:10 daily.

While many of these students have their own transportation, others must use public transportation. Depending on the bus schedule and the students' last period class, students will either catch the bus at Hanover Parkway or walk across the bridge and catch buses in the Greenbelt Center area.

Eleanor Roosevelt and the Greenbelt Police Department under Chief Craze's leadership have worked together to have a positive effect upon the youth that attend Eleanor Roosevelt and we will continue to work with the police department to provide safety to our students and community.

Unfortunately, undocumented statements and innuendos that these students are responsible for the increase in crime by leaders who should be role models and working within the school system are divisive to the entire community.

I continue to be available to work to uphold the high standards that Eleanor Roosevelt strives to achieve and was recognized for by the White House Blue Ribbon Schools Program when we were chosen as one of the top 200 outstanding schools in the nation. Dr. Gerald Boorman Principal, Eleanor Roosevelt High Terrific Job!

Thanks to the Greenbelt Public Works Department for a terrific snow removal job! Last Sunday it was a lot easier to drive on Crescent Road than to try to navigate Kenilworth Avenue or Greenbelt Road. Thanks again.

Del. Pitkin Honored

The Maryland League of Conservation Voters, a non-partisan committee composed of representatives from the major state environmental organizations, recently honored State Delegate Joan Pitkin, delegate from the 23rd District for her 100% rating on key environmental issues during the past two years.

Pitkin was also cited for her leadership role in sponsoring environmental legislation and her efforts on behalf of measures such as automobile emission controls, forest conservation, the Chesapeake Bay cleanup, oil spill liability and growth management.

In the upcoming session, Del. Pitkin is sponsoring legislation to ban funding for the Washington Bypass, require a higher percentage of recycled material in plastic containers, and make the state Department of the Environment responsible for regulating the non-agricultural uses of pesticides.

"The jobs of tomorrow will center around growth and the preservation of our planet's resources," said Del. Pitkin. If Maryland is going to compete successfully in the future, we must make environment a top priority."

Tutoring Program in Reading Matches Seniors, Children

OASIS (Older Adult Service and Information System) has introduced an innovative program involving Greenbelt Center and Hyattsville elementary schools, in which older volunteers tutor children to enhance their reading skills. This unique program, funded by Hecht's department stores, is being implemented in cooperation with the Prince George's County Public Schools.

The OASIS Intergenerational Tutoring Program will match volunteers with six- to nine-year-old students. Thirty volunteers serving Hyattsville Elementary and nine assigned to Greenbelt Center have already undergone specialized training. The program has started and tutors will work with students for the balance of the 1992-93 school year.

"The OASIS Intergenerational Tutoring Program offers a wonderful opportunity to assist students who could benefit from additional reading support" said Edward M. Felegy, Superintendent of Prince Georges County Public Schools. "Helping students succeed in reading at an early age is essential in improving overall school performance. The older adult volunteers represent a valuable resource in our community and a terrific source of skills and experience for our children. The support of Hecht's in this tutoring program is a great example of the kind of partnership between the schools and the business community that is vital to help ensure a successful educational system for the children in our city."

Volunteers Still Needed

OASIS is still looking for senior citizens who have one hour a week they are willing to devote to a student in first, second, or third grade. During that hour, the senior citizen will assist a child with writing and reading his or her own experience stories. A training session will explain the process, answer questions, and help assist seniors before they begin tutoring.

Readers interested in being a positive influence in a child's future should call OASIS at 559-6575 and enroll as an Intergenerational Tutor. Then Greenbelt, Betty Timer, Volunteer Coordinator, will call to provide more details.

The OASIS Intergenerational Program was initiated with successful results in 1989 as a pilot program in Denver and St. Louis.

OASIS administers the tutoring program at the national and local level, works closely with the local school systems and provides the teaching curriculum and training and tutor materials. Each school system identifies the children to participate in the program.

Tutors Instructed

Coordinators and trainers instruct volunteer tutors in the "Language Experience Approach," a teaching method incorporating personal experiences of the tutor and the child to develop the child's oral and written communication skills. Through the long-term personal relationship, tutors also have the opportunity to enhance the children's self-esteem.

OASIS, a national nonprofit organization for individuals over age 55, provides innovative educational, cultural, and wellness programs for its more than 160,000 members nationwide and creates opportunities and training for volunteer community service.

Sponsored nationally by The May Department Stores Company, parent of Hecht's, OASIS is also sponsored by the Prince Georges County Department of Family Services, Bureau of Aging, and Doctors Community Hospital. The program, which operates at Hecht's in Prince Georges Plaza, has a total local membership of more than 5,000 older adults.

Changes in 1992 State Taxes

There are several changes to Maryland tax booklets this year, according to the State Comptroller's office. Filing levels and the pension exclusion have been increased so that residents can earn more before being subject to taxation.

There is a new deduction for two-earner couples that applies only to wages, not to unearned income. Taxpayers using this option will only need to fill one column of the tax form.

The county piggyback tax is now 60%, up from 50% last year. In addition, high income taxpayers will be subject to a 6% tax rate.

For details, see the state tax booklets, recently mailed to state residents. Maryland income tax offices will offer free assistance Monday through Friday, 8 a.m.-5 p.m. through April 15. Extra hours of assistance will be offered on state holidays and some weekends. For information call 1-800-MD-TAXES.

Greenbelt CARES

Carol Leventhal recently attended a Provider Council meeting, called by the Prince Georges County Mental Health Authority. The Provider Council consists of private and public sector representatives, charged with making decisions about the county's mental health expenditures.

An average of 20 families a week participated in regular, scheduled counseling during January. Sixty-two individuals were involved, 48% of them children and youth under 18 years of age. Weekly tutoring sessions in reading, math and English were provided to 76 students.

GEAC Members Discuss Traffic Light, Other Issues

by S.R. Cherry

According to Timothy Sechrist, president of the Greenbelt East Advisory Committee, the deadline for funding of a traffic light at Greenbelt Road and Frankfort Drive is nearing. Sechrist said that city council members have indicated to him that the lack of a unanimous vote by GEAC members favoring the light may place the project in peril. The Greenwood Village Homeowners Association opposes construction of the light and if the funding reserved by the project isn't used for the Frankfort Drive light, it could be used for another county project, not necessarily in Greenbelt.

Sheldon Goldberg of Windsor Green seemed frustrated by the situation, stating that although he still favors the project, due to limitations that the State Highway Administration has imposed, "There is no use in getting a light we don't need." The SHA has restricted use of the proposed light to certain hours of the day with the direction of a crossing guard and would prohibit turning traffic in the intersection.

On a similar issue, Mike Vaccaro of Greenbriar complained about the timing of the light at Ora Glen Drive and Hanover Parkway. He said that when the new light's "Walk" signal comes on, it changes to "Don't Walk" after pedestrians have taken only a few steps off the curb. Others in the group have had the same experience but had not reported the incidents because of an announcement by city officials that the light was in the process of being adjusted.

Town Meeting

where citizens had voiced concerns over an increase in car thefts in the area and cited truancy from Eleanor Roosevelt High as the potential cause. Vaccaro noted that the crimes occurring in the Greenbriar community, which is closest to the school, are minor in nature, usually consisting of vandalism. However, he also indicated that the problem is a recurring one.

He told the group that when multiple complaints are received from residents in the area, homeowner association officials call the school and speak with the principal. He said that the principal always says school authorities will take care of the problem but that the problems start up again later. (See letter from principal on page 2.)

Sheldon Goldberg focused on the fact that most of the incidents of car theft are attempts, rather than actual theft, and that the vehicles are usually returned, an indication that they are being used for joy riding. He also said that most occurrences happen at night.

Some homeowners voiced concerns that a Greenbelt police presence is not evident in Greenbelt East. Margaret Powell of Greenbrook Village reported that she hasn't noticed any additional police patrols but she acknowledged that officers are especially fast in responding to calls or alarms.

Giant to Move

Sechrist also announced that the move for the Giant supermarket from its present location to Beltway Plaza is due in April. The move will change the jurisdiction of the store from Berwyn Heights to the Greenbelt community.

The next meeting of GEAC will be held on April 1 at the Windsor Green Community Center.

Let's Go Fly A Kite

On Saturday, April 3 from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. the College Park Airport Museum and the Maryland Kite Society will be holding a kite-making and flying workshop for 20 participants ages 6-10 and their parents. Pre-registration is necessary as space is limited. The workshop will be held at the museum located at 6709 Cpl. Frank Scott Drive, College Park. There is a fee for each participant to cover materials.

For further information call (301) 864-1530; TDD (301) 249-4252.

Auditions March 28 For Youth Theater

The Greenbelt Arts Center invites the youth of the community, ages 8 to 18, to auditions for this year's Youth Theater production of Midsummer Night's Dream. The auditions will take place on Sunday, March 28, from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Youth Center. For more information call the director Ginny Zanner, 441-8770.

Tenor Castel Gives Diction Masterclass

The Voice Division of the Department of Music at the University of Maryland, College Park, will present internationally acclaimed tenor Nico Castel for two days of Masterclass in French, Italian, and German diction.

The class will be held at the Tawes Fine Arts Building on April 2 and 3.

A specialist in over 200 character-tenor roles, Castel was heard for six years at the New York City Opera before being asked to join the Metropolitan Opera where he is still a regular member after 23 years as a principal and musical staff diction coach. There is no admission fee and the public is invited. For more information call the Concert Office at (301) 405-5548.

the driver's side, the truck would have had to be pulled out of service, just when it was most needed.

This boyish lark had expensive consequences for the city. Not only must the glass be replaced, but the frame around the windshield was bent as well, requiring replacement at a cost estimated at $300. On Tuesday other boys threw snowballs at a moving garbage truck, aiming for the open window. Had it hit the driver, with a second man riding in the open on the rear, the employees could well have been injured.

Trash Collection

Because of icy conditions on Monday, the regular trash collection had to be cancelled. On Tuesday, the crew ran the Monday route and on Wednesday, that for Tuesday. Hirsch said that the crews appreciate the thoughtfulness of residents who carry their trash bins out to the curbside when the snow is deep. One man on Tuesday fell three times on the ice, trying to reach trash collections near the rear of property.

As the snow began to thaw on Tuesday, the small front end loaders and trucks were sent out to clear piled snow away from the curbs. What could not be shoveled up on to the grass was carted away and disposed of in open fields, Hirsch said.

Volunteers Sought

Volunteers to serve as legal advocates and/or court companions are very much needed by the Family Crisis Center. These volunteers, for whom criminal justice knowledge would be preferable but not necessary, will be working on behalf of battered women. The Center is willing to consider student interns who will be trained on the job. For details call the Prince Georges Voluntary Action Center at 779-9444.

JOE'S TIPS OF THE WEEK

Hello again !!!

Some time ago, in one of my past writings, I spoke about a component called the oxygen sensor. This component is located in the exhaust system with one or two wires coming from it and resembles a spark plug. Ah, now you remember! Well, anyway, this past week we had a vehicle come into the repair facility with a driveability complaint and a mileage loss complaint. The engine had been completely tuned up about two weeks ago, with all new ignition components, but the condition actually worsened according to the owner who stated he performed the tune up himself. We didn't know the validity of the job that was performed. After a road test and a visual we got the feeling of how bad this vehicle was performing.

The actual tuneup was pretty much in line and was not a factor in how the engine was performing. While performing a singular emission component check with a digital volt and ohm meter, we eliminated most of the troubling and routine checks. The next test was the oxygen sensor test which we felt could be a possible cause, although nothing out of the ordinary. Wow, it seemed as if the oxygen sensor was on vacation when we tested it for voltage. No wonder the engine was running terrible and with mileage loss. At this point, we put a new one in and retested the circuits. Things began to happen. The power increased, the stumble disappeared, and probably the mileage came back (only the next fill up will confirm that).

We then checked the mileage and found it to be over 50 thousand—57 to be exact—and the oxygen sensor was original.

No preventive maintenance was ever done in this department. This is no good because this type of repair can get out of hand very quickly and cause unnecessary component replacement. This kind of situation happens all the time. Vehicle owners buy all kinds of tune up components that they think they need, and unscrupulous people just do parts replacement types of diagnosis. Well, all's happy in this department.

TILL NEXT TIME
THINK PREVENTIVE MAINTENANCE !!
